

---

If a residency program does not have a preceptor [leader] with a broad vision, with a deep love for his profession and his specialty, with an intimate awareness of its problems, with an incisive knowledge of the literature, with a broad grasp of the trends in healthcare, who does not imbue his residents with this professional ethic, ideals, and philosophy of excellence, then that program will fail.

– ASHP Past President Clifton J. Latiolais, 1966

